AMEYA NARVANKAR is a multidisciplinary designer, visual artist and bookmaker from India. An alumnus of IIT-Bombay, Ameya believes in the power of design to bring about change, which he hopes to achieve through his foray into children's literature.

Ritu Weds Chandni

AMEYA NARVANKAR

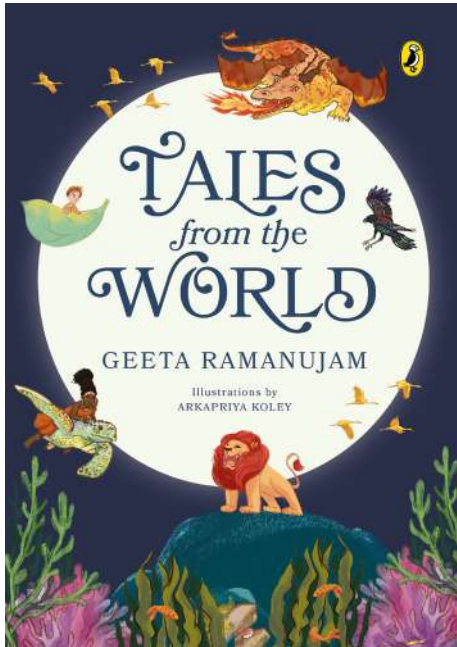

Ritu and Chandni are getting married and you are invited to celebrate the magic of love!

Ayesha is excited to attend her cousin Ritu's wedding. She can barely wait to dance at the baraat! But not everyone is happy that Ritu is marrying her girlfriend, Chandni. Some have even vowed to stop the celebrations. Will Ayesha be able to save her cousin's big day?

Centering Ayesha's love for her cousin as much as it showcases Ritu and Chandni's love for each other, this warm-hearted story celebrates the power of young voices to stand up against prejudice and bigotry.

The Puffin Book of 100 Extraordinary Indians

100 inspiring stories of outstanding achievements!

The Puffin Book of 100 Extraordinary Indians is a celebration of achievements and personal stories of those who forged new paths for themselves and others in a way that it continues to affect modern lives.

Written as short anecdotal biographical sketches, the book presents lives of scientists, doctors, activists, painters, sportspeople, dancers, political leaders and many more from different walks of life. Featured in this collection are names like Irom Sharmila, Dutee Chand, Bhagat Singh, Gauri Sawant, Virat Kohli and Sundar Pichai.

Whether they climbed the heights, swam the depths, mastered science or track and field, picked the baton of education or activism—each of their stories is replete with big and small victories that continue to inspire.

AMIT MAJMUDAR is a diagnostic nuclear radiologist. He is the author of three volumes of poetry, most recently Dothead. His first collection, 0°, 0°, was a finalist for the Poetry Society of America's Norma Farber First Book Award; his second, Heaven and Earth, was selected for the 2011 Donald Justice Prize.

Heroes the Colour of Dust

AMIT MAJMUDAR

Historical fiction meets satire in this hilarious take on the events of the Dandi March featuring some of the most ambitious sparrows!

Everything in this book is absolutely true, including the things that happened, the things that didn't really happen and the things that would have happened if history had been more interested in telling an exciting tale! Gandhi and his followers intend to set out on their long walk to Dandi to protest a salt tax, but little do they know of the dangers that stand in their way. They mustn't despair, for a group of fearless sparrows are ready for self-sacrifice and derring—do. They've made a resolution, you see, to protect Gandhi from any foe—bird, mutt or Britisher.

Open this book to join the ranks of the Mahatma's Guards—heroes six, with India's greatest poet in the mix—as their adventure takes wing!

BIJAL VACHHARAJANI

A heart-warming and hilarious ode to every child's overactive imagination

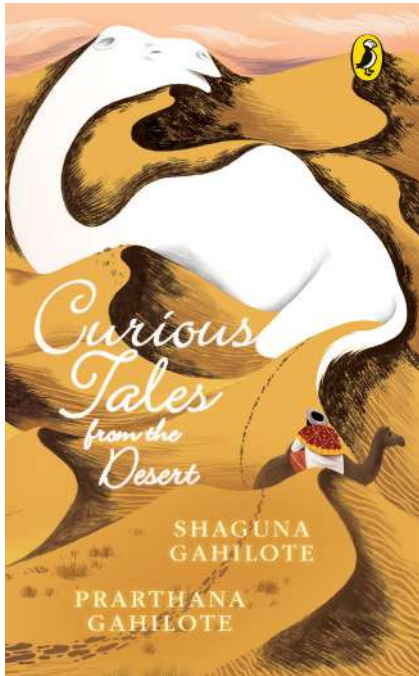

Avi has the (annoying) habit of looking at the good side (pros) and the bad side (cons) of situations that life tosses his way—just like the curveballs that his friend HJ tosses during cricket.

Only this time, Avi is in a soup. Literally! Just like the Mama Bear who is known to eat her sickly baby, Avi is pretty sure that his Aai wants to dunk him in soup and eat him up. Even though he definitely would not taste good.

Now, the only two options in front of Avi are fight or be fried.

Anirudh's Dream

Once upon a time, there were fields in the city of Mumbai. In its heartland were forests where panthers roamed. In those days, the seas flooded the channels that separated the seven islands of the city. On one of those islands was a fort guarded by cannons that bristled from black ramparts.

Vikram had no idea of the existence of this fort. Nor did his friend, Anirudh. But in a cave, on a windswept mountain in the Sahyadris, Anirudh had a dream. He dreamt of a boy named Irfan who once lived in this fort.

Chitra joins Vikram and Aditya and their new friend Anirudh, in the Sahyadri Mountains, where they embark on their strangest adventure yet.

Koleshwar's Secret

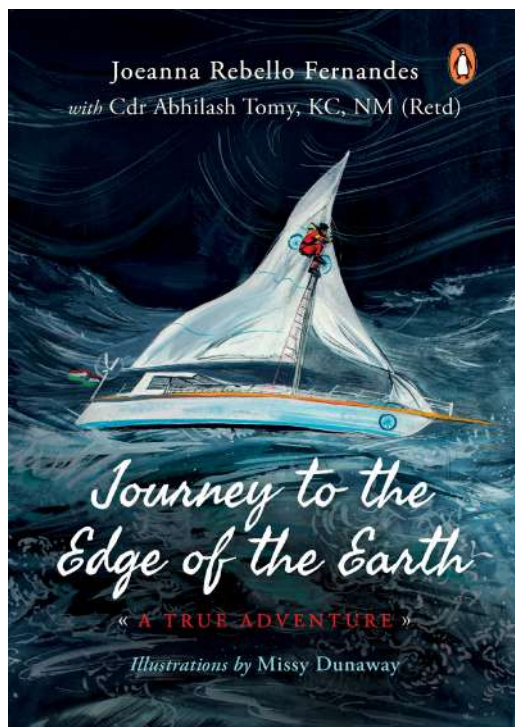

Searching for the remnants of Mumbai's fort is a futile exercise, for not a wall or battlement of the edifice survives today. But waking from his dream, Anirudh inexplicably knows every gate, contour and detail of the vanished fort. Fascinated by Anirudh's revelations, Vikram explores Mumbai with him.

Far out in the Sahyadris, rises a mountain known as Koleshwar. Striving to make sense of his dream, Anirudh stumbles upon a forgotten legacy that leads to the mountain. Buried on its ancient slopes is a secret that only he has the power to decode.

Along with Anirudh—Vikram, Aditya and Chitra—are sucked into an adventure that traverses from Mumbai to its neighbouring mountain range, the Sahyadris.

She writes about mental health on her blog, and her work has also appeared in The Hindu, the Swaddle, and Spark magazine. She currently lives in Mumbai with an indie dog who behaves part-cat. This is her first novel.

First Person SHREYA RAMACHANDRAN

An unconventional and melancholic take on what it means to be alive

It's December 2013 and Ami Shekar has returned to the warm, rainy streets of Adyar. Her father wants her to go back to college and stop 'all this talk' about a gap year. Her mother wants her to go to a therapist. Her sister wants her to stop being sad. And Ami wants . . . well, she just wants to stop all the noise in her own head.

As she walks the halls of her old high school and haunts the room that once used to be her grandfather's, Ami has much she needs to come to terms with: her mental health; her memories of Thatha; and, finally, her own future.

The Chowpatty Cooking Club

LUBAINA BANDUKWALA

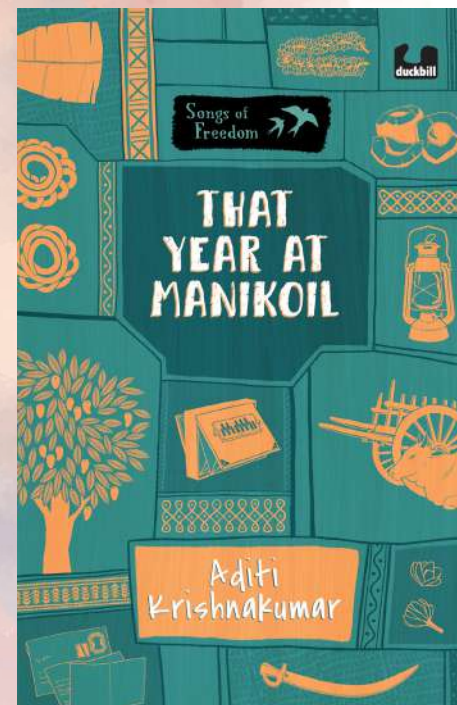

Bombay, 1942

With Mahatma Gandhi's call to the British to Quit India, the city has become a hotbed of revolutionary activity—student protests, secret magazines and even an underground People's Radio, which broadcasts news that the British want concealed.

Sakina and her friends Zenobia and Mehul desperately want to be part of this struggle for freedom—even when there is little that they are permitted to do. But at least, they are trying to do something useful, while their mothers are only running a cooking club...

My Grandmother's Masterpiece

MADHURIMA VAIDYARTHI

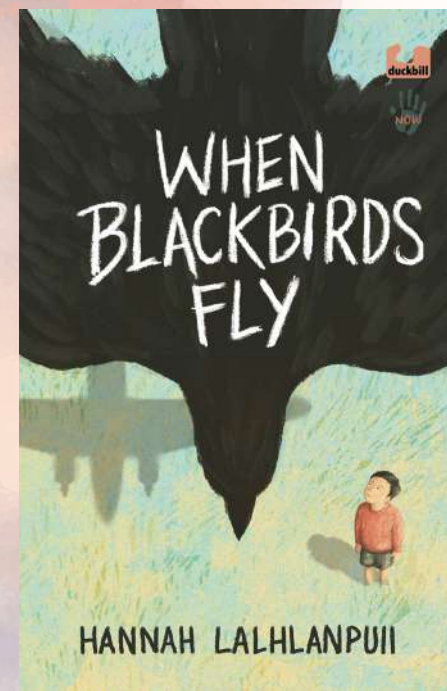

A funny and tender story about the relationship between a girl and her grandmother and the fine art of painting—and that dreams can come true at any age

'This is the story of how my grandmother became a famous artist. It happened somewhere between my seventh and eighth birthdays, so she was really old and also a grandmother, and I didn't know she was an artist. And, of course, she was not famous. And then she was both, all at once.'

For Nini, Minima is just her normal everyday grandmother. So when Minima suddenly shows an interest in doing something new, Nini is not sure that she likes it. After all, a grandmother's first job is being a grandmother, isn't it?

Lost in Time: Ghatotkacha and the Game of Illusions

NAMITA GOKHALE

An astonishing encounter with the past that brings alive the distant days of the Mahabharata

Young Chintamani Dev Gupta, on holiday in a bird camp near Sat Tal Lake, is transported via a wormhole to the days of the Mahabharata. Trapped in time, he meets Ghatotkacha and his mother, the demoness Hidimba. But the gentle giant, a master of illusion and mind-boggling rakshasa technology, wields his strength just as well as he knows the age-old secrets of the forest and the elemental forces. And in his enlightening company, Chintamani finds himself in the thick of the events of the most enduring Indian epic.

An intense yet tender look at a rare friendship as well as the abiding puzzles of the past, this is a fascinating read.
